

Oxford Networks Day Friday 1st October 2010

The third Oxford Networks Day is designed to bridge research from Oxford's different departments and divisions. The day will bring together experimentalists, analysts and theorists from across the Universities' departments with the goal of increasing contact between researchers studying networked systems.

All welcome - attendance is free but registration is requested.

Please register by 24th September 2010 by emailing networks@sbs.ox.ac.uk

Time

9: 30 - 17:30

Venue:

Martin Wood Lecture Theatre
Clarendon Physics Building
University of Oxford
OX1 3PU

Location details - click here

Sign-up networks@sbs.ox.ac.uk

Contact person:

Dorota Pawlik
info.cabdyn@sbs.ox.ac.uk
01865 288785

Organiser:

Nick Jones (Physics)

CABDyN, OCISB

Felix Reed-Tsochas
Judith Armitage

Questions or comments:

info.cabdyn@sbs.ox.ac.uk

Speakers:

Keynote: Michael Stumpf, Centre for Bioinformatics, Division of Molecular Biosciences, Imperial College London

Michael Biggs, Department of Sociology, University of Oxford

Colin McDiarmind, Department of Statistics, University of Oxford

Gail Preston, Department of Plant Sciences, University of Oxford

Felix Reed-Tsochas, CABDyN Complexity Centre, University of Oxford

Steve Roberts, Department of Engineering Sciences, University of Oxford

Federico Varese, Department of Sociology, University of Oxford

From 4pm there will be an open series of ten minute talks as a part of the Oxford - Imperial Complexity meeting.

